The better and faster your Android device is, the more likely it is to feel sluggish. The speed can vary greatly from app to app, and a few very demanding ones can really slow down your phone. We've all done it - had to wait for a big download to finish before we can install the next one. But luckily, there are some ways you can get your Android to act its best. Here are a few Android Tips and Tricks to help you unlock the full potential of your smartphone.

1. Enable the Do Not Disturb Mode With your default Android settings, you'll probably be bombarded with annoying alerts even when you're away from your phone. But your phone might also suddenly be woken up when an important app update is available, or your device receives a notification from your favorite messaging app. All of these can be annoying, so what's the solution? Enable the Do Not Disturb mode. To do this, open the Settings app on your device. Under the 'Do Not Disturb' option, tap on the three-dots icon in the top right corner to make the toggle switch active. Now whenever you reach for your phone, the screen will be off unless you open the app.
2. Increase the RAM Your Android device has a certain amount of RAM built-in for use. But apps also need memory. In most cases, this RAM is already fully utilized by the apps currently installed. If you have no idea how much RAM your phone has, you can either go to the Settings app, open the About Phone option, and tap on 'Build Number' repeatedly until you see 'Android Version' option, or just pull out your device's battery and let it sit for a few minutes. While you're waiting for the battery to discharge, open up a new app on your Android device. In the top-right corner of the app, tap the three-dots icon to make the scrollable list appear. Scroll down until you see the 'Memory' option, and hit the 'Back' button to bring you back to the app. Look at the RAM bar and see how much RAM is being used. If you see that your device has used all its RAM, you might have to add some more to your phone.
3. Remove Unused Apps Do you have a plethora of apps on your Android device, but are not using them anymore? If you don't know which of them is consuming all the RAM on your
